Smith—Ravenscroft.

Miss Nina Hoblitzell Ravenscroft, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Ravenscroft of East street, and Mr. Harry Horton Smith, only son of Captain and Mrs. Perry R. Smith, were married at the home of the bride's parents this morning at 10 o'clock. It was a very quiet wedding, no invitations having been issued, and only relatives and a very few near friends being present.

The bride was attended by Miss Mabel Smith, sister of the groom, and the best man was Mr. Smith of Sheffield, a cousin of the groom, Mrs. E. C. Powell played the wedding march.

The officiating clergyman was Rev. Edwin L. McIvaine, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and the ring ceremony was used. It was a very pretty wedding those who witnessed it say, but as quiet and unostentatious as it could well have been made.

Both bride and groom are among the best known and most prominent young people of Ridgway and have hosts of friends who will wish them bon voyage on life's matrimonial sea. They left on the 11:02 forenoon train for a wedding tour, which will include several points of interest in the East. —Ridgway Daily Record, Oct. 10th.

Mr. Smith the groom, has resided in Emporium for several months, taking Mr. Eick's place as Supt. of tannery since he was afflicted with anthrax. Mr. Smith's Emporium friends extend their best wishes.

Wed With Flowers all About Them.

Newark, N. J., News.

A very pretty wedding took place last night at De Jianne's reception hall, when Miss Emma Bailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bailey, of Ledgewood, N. J., became the bride of Fred Astoria Zweidinger, Jr, of this city, the Rev. Frederick Hoch, pastor of the Second German Presbyterian Church, officiating. The hall was beautifully decorated with smilax, hydrangias and pink and white asters, the color scheme being pink and white.

The ushers were Richard W. Erier and Frederick A, Steiger. Dr. Eugene W. Erler was the best man. The bride's coterie included the maid of honor, Miss Cora A. Ill, and the bridesmaids, Miss Lillian De Shazo, and Miss Olive C. Erler. The bride entered the hall on the arm of her father to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march. She wore a silk gown trimmed with baby Irish and white pan velvet, and a veil of white tulle. Her hair was adorned with lilies of the valley and organge blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and bridal roses.

The maid of honor was attired in a pink messaline empire gown, trimmed with lace and pink panne velvet. She carried pink roses. Miss DeShazo wore a white lawn, renaissanco front. Miss Erler was attired in longerie batiste over taffeta silk. Both bridesmaids carried white chrysanthemums. After the ceremony a wedding supper was served, after which the couple left on a short trip to Philadelphia and Jamestown. After their return they will reside at 63 South Fourth street.

The bride's gifts to the maid of honor and the bridesmaids were gold brooches. The groom gave gold stick pins to the best man and the ushers.

Mr. and Mrs. Zweidinger are visit in Emporium, guests of Miss Marie Garvin, East Fifth street, visiting her many Emporium admiring friends. The PRESS was honored with a call from the happy couple.

Indiana Town Wiped Out!

Fifty Persons Killed 600 Injured.

FONTANET, IND., Oct. 14.—Fontanet was practically destroyed to-day by the explosion of the plant of the Dupodt Powder Company. The dead number from 25 to 50. More than 600 persons were injured and every building in the town was wholly or partially leveled to the ground.

Where stood a thriving and busy town of 1,000 people this morning, tonight there is ruin and scattered wreckage. The dead and more seriously injured have been taken away. Five hundred inhabitants, all more or less wounded, remain to gather their scattered household goods and sleep under tents and on cots, guarded by soldiers of the state.

FELT 200 MILES AWAY.

The powder mills, seven in number, blew up at 9:15 this morning. They employed 200 men and of these 75 were at work when the first explosion occured in the press mill. In quick succession the glazing mill, the two coining mills and the powder magazine blew up, followed by the cap mill. In the magazine, situated several hundred yards from the mills, were stored 40,000 kegs of powder. When it blew up the concussion was felt nearly 200 miles away.

Farm houses two miles away and school houses equally distant, were torn to pieces and their occupants injured. A passenger train on the Big Four railroad, four miles away, had every coach window broken and sevrul passengers were hurt by flying glass.

Department Store.

Richard Kuehne, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., was a PRESS visitor on Monday and informs us he has closed the deal for the new Cramer brick store and will open a complete and up-to-date department store about Nov. first. Mr. Kuehne is a practical business man and fully understands the business, having been for 23 years connected with Wm. Hengerer Co, Buffalo, and for three years past secretary and treasurer of the R. Kuehne Co., Niagara Falls. A Falls publication has this to say of the new firm:

"Among the houses which are contributing to thhe prosperity of the city is The R. Kuehne Company located at 1814-16-18 Main street. This business was established in 1904, with A. L Stewart, president, and R. Kuehne, secretary and treasurer, and through the company's ably conducted efforts the business has grown to very gratifying proportions, and to day extends throughout the entire city and vicinity. The premises occupied consists of a large three story brick structure, containing thirty thousand square feet of floor space. On the first floor they carry at all times one of the largest and most complete stock of dry goods of any house in this city. On the second floor millinery, cloaks, suits. carpets, drapery and window shades, using the basement for bargain and toy departments. The excellence of the goods sold and the latest styles and fashionable patterns, combined with the sterling and practical methods used, and the invariably honest and honorable dealings and painstaking care of the interests of the patrons of the house has brought deserved and merited success. Employment is given to thirty skilled and courteous clerks, and the utmost system is observed throughout the establishment."

Mr. Kuehne left on Tuesday for New York to purchase a complete line, notice will be given in the PRESS of the opening night. Miss Lena Cramer will remain with the new firm as head clerk and is now selecting her assistants. Opening night will be an elaborate occasion, Fisk's orchestra having been engaged for the occasion.

Delicate Operation.

Andrew Housler, of Rich Valley, was in town on Tuesday, calling on his friends. On the 12th of Sept. a delicate operation was performed on his neck, four cancers being removed.

Settled Duplicates.

The following Constables and Collectors have settled their duplicates in full, as far as the county is concerned: Chas. W. Williams, Gibson; S. D. McCoole, Driftwood; W. H. Smith, Lumber; N. A. Ostrum, Shippen.

Republican Rally.

Hon. John O. Sheatz, accompanied by Representative Beidelman, of Harrisburg, Congressman C. F. Barclay and Representative Josiah Howard of this county went to Bradford yesterday afternoon to attend a Republican Rally. John O. Sheatz has a walk over. His majority will exceed Berry's plurality.

Monument Dedication!

Final arrangements were completed at a meeting at Driftwood last week for the dedication of the Bucktail monument. on or about April 27th—a very appropriate date, it being the 47th anniversary of the departure of the Bucktails from this county, it also being Gen's U. S. Grant's birthday.

The contract for the erection of the shaft has been awarded to the J. M. Goessler's Sons, of Philadelpeia.

The Driftwood Gazette, in its last issue, says:

"The monument will be of Vermont Barrie Granite, nine feet high and seven feet at the base. The stone will be rough, or "hammered" and will be surrounded be a bronze statue of a Bucktail as he was when he left our shores to engage in the manufacture of American history. This bronze figure will be six feet high, making the entire structure fifteen feet from top to bottom. The four sides of the monument will contain bronze tablets with appropriate inscriptions.

Mr. Stephen Cazzulo, a sculptor whose art work adorns many of the finest buildings in this State, and who has a fine reputation as a master workman and artist, is busy on the model."

Abrupt Adjournment.

What was calculated to be the most important court held in Cameron county for years came to an abrupt termination on Tuesday, when the murder case came up for trial, Fred A. Johnson, attorney for the prisoner, took exceptions to the manner in which the jury was drawn from the wheel—the slips upon which the names were written not being folded. The court discharged all jurors and witnesses, continuing all cases until January term.

The following business was disposed of before the jury was quashed:

Commonwealth vs John Kelly Deft. discharged with costs on county.

Com. vs Wm. Koher. True bill. verdict of guilty on both counts—rape and adultery. Sentenced to 15 years in the penitentiary.

Chas. Barto, who was convicted of stealing a horse from L. G. Cook, was sentenced to two years in penitentiary.

Divorce granted Christine Spangler.

A Responsible Citizen.

The story was told in the Youth's Companion some time ago of a member of a "school city" in Chicago who defeated his teacher in debate on the question of war, which, the boy maintained, is forbidden by the ten commandments and is always wrong. Now comes from Philadelphia the story of a girl who was also admitted to citizenship in such an organization, and who upset promptly all the expectations of the schoolmistress. Every teacher who had ever struggled over her admitted that Marie Parola was a torment and a plague. There were 500 other girls in the same building with her, but Marie held all records as truant, slattern and mischief-maker. This is the way she appeared to her teachers, but she must have had good qualities which were apparent to her fellow pupils, although not to the teachers. With the girls of her class Marie was almost universally a favorite. After a time a "school city" was organized among the pupils, and to the disgust of the teacher, Marie was elected almost unanimously as delegate to the common council from her room. "What shall I do?" her teacher asked of the other "schoolma'ams." "Wait and see," they counseled. "Perhaps she will be afraid to come any more." But the next morning Marie was on hand bright and early, attired as for a ball. When the teacher arrived Marie greeted her graciously. Soon there entered a pupil as tousled and dirty as Marie had usually been. The new "councilman" led her aside and laid down the law to her. "We are citizens now," she said. "You don't want to do this way any more." Another girl who came late was also taken in hand and disciplined by the "councilman." Two years later the teacher who had been so angry when Marie was elected to the council admitted that there had never been in the school another influence so sweet, so great and so clean as Marie's. It is often so in life outside the schoolroom. Responsibility sobers and exalts and brings out qualities the possession of which had not been suspected.

It has been suggested that towns lying along the line of the railroads put up bulletins at the railroad stations setting forth the attractions of the towns, and their claim on the interest of the traveling public. If the bulletins are not so ugly as to disfigure the landscape they will serve a useful purpose; but when the only bulletin in sight has been a small, well-trimmed park about the station and clean and smooth strets leading to it, many travelers have had their curiosity aroused enough to inquire the name of the town and its leading industries, so pleasant an impression has the air of thrift and good taste made upon them. Those village improvement associations which do not know where to begin their work might do much worse than to start with the railroad station surroundings.

Italy is among the countries whose people are enjoying comparative prosperity. Because of the great number coming to America, particularly from Sicily, laborers there are enjoying a 150 per cent. increase in wages, getting 75 cents a day where they formerly got 30. Emigrant relatives in this country are sending liberal remittances, the tendency being to create a firmer belief than ever that this is the land of promise.

A bank open day and night was established in the city of New York some months ago. Recently the same amazing metropolis has created a night court. Besides symbolizing the eternal vigilance of justice (erroneously conceived as blind), the night court has had practical effect in limiting certain kinds of crime.

Annie Besant says she is the present owner of the soul of Mme. Blavatsky. One of the disagreeable features of theosophy, says the Chicago Record-Herald, is that an individual cannot pick out the soul he or she would like to have, but must accept any kind of a soul that comes along and demands admission.

NOT WITHOUT VALUE

EVEN THE STAND-PATTER MAY HAVE HIS USES.

The Country Seems to Be Coming Around to His Belief That for Some Time to Come It Would Be Prudent to Let the Tariff Entirely Alone.

For the past five years the voice of the so-called "stand-patter" has been steadily against any disturbance of the tariff. Recent events and existing conditions in the political field would seem to indicate that the man who said "Let the tariff alone," was the man who was right all the time.

Does anybody at this moment regret that the tariff has been let alone for the past five years?

Does anybody dispute that the country is in every way richer and better off because of five straight years of stand-pat policy?

In 1906 stand-pat was the declared policy of the congressional campaign. It was the policy alike of the congressional committee and of the administration.

When in May of this year a convention representing not more than five per cent. of the manufacturers of the United States adopted a resolution calling for tariff revision at the earliest practical moment, and in the meantime wide-open reciprocity arrangements, the stand-patter again said: "Let the tariff alone."

Three months after the manufacturers in convention declared for immediate tariff disturbance they changed their tune, and are now saying that the tariff should not be touched for two years to come.

They, too, are nearer to the stand-pat position than they were last May; and again it is not the stand-patter who has changed his position.

All the time, for five straight years, the stand-patter has said that tariff disturbance meant harm to business, harm to labor and wage earning, harm to the Republican party. "Therefore," said the stand-patter, "let the tariff alone."

To-day the tariff rippers of three months ago, of a year ago, of five years ago, are saying precisely the same thing. They are saying that it would be suicidal for the Republican party to disturb the tariff at the threshold of a presidential campaign. "Let the tariff alone" (for two years) is what they are now saying.

They are all nearer the stand-pat position than ever before; but it is not the stand-patter who has changed his position.

The stand-patter has held the fort against all assailants for fully five years. He holds it yet. The longer he can hold it, the better for the country.

In holding the fort for five years the stand-patter has been worth many billions of dollars to the country as a whole. He will be worth many billions more to the country if the country will keep on listening to his advice: "Let the tariff alone."

What Revision Means.

"Business interests need not be alarmed. The Republican national convention to meet next June will declare unequivocally for a protective tariff and against throwing the American market open to foreigners."

Thus speaks the Des Moines Capital. That assurance will not, however, prevent a serious disturbance of business when the hauling over of the tariff schedules begins. The charge is made that some of the schedules are too high. No particulars are given. So the minute the onslaught begins all protected interests will be in a nervous state; retrenchment will be in order, factories will slow down, workmen will be discharged and business of all classes will show an unhealthy tone during the uncertainty of the tariff discussion. And then, after it is all over and another compromise bill is adopted, the country will again struggle back to its present condition of prosperity. Meanwhile the people will have experienced a slump that will cause them to wonder if, after all, the present schedules were not all right and that it would have been better to stand pat!—Burlington Hawk-Eye.

A Serious Matter.

The tariff cannot be amended without diligent and thorough inquiry, and this inquiry means a great deal of time and brings about a sharp conflict of the industries affected. Modern business is so complex and tariff schedules are so involved and far-reaching that to tinker with the customs schedules is to set almost every kind of business in eager motion, either to gain some fresh advantage or else to defeat proposals that seem fraught with menace. All this is laughed to scorn by theorists as of no consequence, but business men know it is a serious matter.—Indianapolis Star.

What Tariff Smashing Would Do.

If the United States were to adopt the ideas of the tariff smashers and buy mostly abroad where labor is paid what Americans would call starvation wages, so that money was constantly and largely shipped out of the country and labor reduced to the basis of foreign wage scales in competing industries, the sending of the circulating medium away would bring such results as the conditions prevailing at the end of ten years of that practice following the free trade programme of 1846.—Buffalo News.

SOME OF THE REASONS WHY

Various People Are Anxious to Rip Up the Tariff.

There are various reasons in the minds of men promoting the disire for a taking up of the tariff question.

In the first place every manufacturer who favors tariff changes has in mind the other man, never once thinking that he will be hit.

Secondly, the man who would have a change has in mind lower prices for the other man, not for himself.

Third, the salaried class who feels that their situations are permanent. This class has always been in favor of practical free-trade.

Fourth, the man who has plenty of money with which to avail himself of the advantages to be offered to him in the way of low-priced property. In other words, the man who is prepared to make money out of disaster welcomes disaster.

Fifth, there is a class of men who think the wage worker is getting to be too obstreperous, too hard to handle, all the time wanting more money. A suspension of business, caused by tariff ripping, would, they say, bring the wage worker to his senses by causing him to seek a job instead of having the job seek him, as is the case at the present time. Men are not asking for more wages when they are out of work. Then they are only asking for jobs. Tariff ripping would throw men out of employment. The National Manufacturers' association has declared for an immediate revision of the tariff. That association is anti-union.

Sixth, there are those who are complaining that they are weary of the servant girl tyranny. They want something to break the servant girl's back, figuratively speaking. Closing factories and shops by tariff ripping, would throw girls and women out of employment and they would be compelled to seek domestic service.

Hence tariff ripping, some people think, would solve the servant girl problem.

These are some of the classifications and some of the reasons for the tariff ripping sentiment which prevails to-day.—Des Moines Capital.

THEY ALL WANT TO DO SOMETHING TO THE TARIFF.

NOW, THEN, LITTLE MAN, WHAT DO YOU WANT?
I WANT TO TEAR UP THE TARIFF!
I WANT TO REDUCE THE AMERICAN TARIFF!
I WANT TO BUY MATERIAL AND SUPPLIES IN EUROPE!
I WANT FREE TRADE IN SUGAR AND TOBACCO
THE GREAT PROTECTIONIST ACT

"Not Desirable.

Would tariff revision make an increased demand for labor? Would more mills be started, more mines be opened or more wages be paid through its results? Would the revision proposed be expected to add to the prosperity we are now and have been enjoying, or to take from it? These are some of the very pertinent and practical questions asked by Senator Foraker of Ohio, in the course of an address last week. The senior senator of Ohio may represent some purposes which the voters of Michigan would not approve, but his questions suggests a position in the matter of tariff tinkering which Michigan does approve. That tariff revision such as would meet the requirements of the most aggressive advocates of such action would be accompanied again with just such results as have always in the past accompanied it is a reasonable answer to Senator Foraker's questions. And that is why it is not now desirable.—Reed City (Mich.) Clarion.

Saw It All the Time.

"As soon as it dawned on the intelligence of our stand-pat friends that every free trader in the land was content and even anxious to play at the game of the maximum and the minimum, the thing was jerked out of sight and a new piece put on the boards—revision by the friends of protection."—Washington Post.

No man with an intelligent grasp of the principle and policy of protection ever had the slightest hesitation in identifying the little free trade joker concealed in the maximum and minimum proposition. Protectionists prefer a single tariff. If a double tariff is made necessary by foreign tariff discrimination it should be a minimum and a maximum; a stable minimum not subject to trade dickers, and a high maximum as a penalty for unfair tariff treatment by other nations. That is the true protectionist position.

Nothing to Be Thankful For.

"The Protective Tariff league ought to be thankful that the customs agreement with Germany has prevented a commercial war that would probably have resulted in hasty action by congress to reduce our tariff rates materially or else cause serious loss to American manufacturers and producers of foodstuffs."—St. Paul Dispatch.

Thankful for nothing! There never was the remotest possibility of a commercial war with Germany. Germany put up a bluff, encouraged thereto by the Reciprocal Tariff leaguers and such "tariff reforming" newspapers as the Dispatch, and our government "laid down" to it. That's all.—American Economist.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF TRADE CONDITIONS.

GENERAL BUSINESS IS MAKING GOOD PROGRESS.

SECURITIES HAVE FALLEN

To the Lowest Point Since 1904—Many Contemplated Undertakings Await More Normal Financial Conditions—Business Failures.

New York.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

A larger volume of business is being transacted than at this time last year, although conditions in 1906 were most favorable, and there is now the handicap of almost prohibitive rates for commercial paper. Many contemplated undertakings await more normal financial conditions, and securities have fallen to the lowest point since 1904, but general business throughout the country makes fairly good progress.

Retailers report a very brisk movement of seasonable merchandise and jobbers continue to forward suplementary consignments, but reports of collections are irregular.

In agricultural districts the marketing of the crops at high prices makes the payments satisfactory, but at many eastern centers there is complaint of delay in settlements.

Several strikes are still retarding progress, but most industrial plants are well occupied and are assured of continued activity up to the end of the year at least.

Consumers anticipate more attractive terms in the pig iron market and consequently defer the placing of orders, but most furnaces are still sold up to the end of the year, so that few concessions are offered. It is evident that there is no fear of over-production, as the number of furnaces in blast increased on October 1.

In some divisions of the steel market there is an increase of volume of new business, but other plants find much delay in the placing of contracts, although a considerable tonnage is under consideration.

Cotton mills continue well occupied. There is still much idle machinery at woolen mills, men's wear products being the most uncertain section, while the status of the worsted manufacturer is practically determined.

New England shoe factories benefited by the strike at St. Louis, which sent many orders to the east.

Business failures in the United States for the week ending October 10 numbered 192, against 177 last week.

ACCIDENT ON A BOAT.

Steam Pipe Bursts, Causing Death of Two Men and Badly Scalding Another.

Buffalo, N. Y. — The propeller City of Naples, of the Gilchrist fleet, came into port Friday night with two of her crew dead and one of her officers badly scalded. The dead are:

Louis Hornbusle, a fireman, of Milwaukee.

James Flanagan, a coal passer, of Buffalo.

Injured: First Engineer Louis Fittinger, of Buffalo, badly scalded about feet and legs.

The City of Naples was off Long Point about 3 o'clock Friday morning. There was a stiff gale blowing and the sea was running high. Hornbusle and Flanagan were stoking and Fittinger was in charge of the engines. A 5½ inch steam pipe between the boilers and engine burst, sending a cloud of scalding steam and water down into the boiler room. Deprived of her power, the Naples swung into the trough of the sea and began to roll heavily. The coal in the bunkers where Hornbusle and Flanagan had fled to escape the blinding steam, suddenly shifted burying the two men. The boiling water poured in upon them, scalding them to death.

First Engineer Fittinger, who went below to rescue his two men, stepped into a foot of boiling hot water. He managed to return to the deck unaided.

The City of Naples drifted helplessly until daybreak, when she was picked up by a propeller and towed into port.

Body Taken to Canada.

Columbus, O.—The body of Mrs. Cassie Chadwick, who died in the woman's ward of the Ohio penitentiary Thursday night, was taken Friday evening to Woodstock, Ont., the place of her birth, for burial. The body was accompanied by Emil Hoover, son of Mrs. Chadwick, and Mrs. J. W. Weston, a sister, of Woodstock, who arrived during the day. No services were held here and plans for the burial at Woodstock were not announced.

Cubs Win Three Straight.

Detroit, Mich. — In the first game of the world's championship series on their own field, the Detroit American league team was beaten Friday afternoon by the Chicago Nationals by the score of 6 to 1. It was a well deserved victory for the Chicago team, as it played superior ball throughout the game. There were several errors of omission on the part of the Detroit team, beside the two errors scored against them which figured in the Chicago run-making.

Exhibiting the Connecticut.

New London, Conn. — The battleship Connecticut, with Rear Admiral Evans on board, arrived here Friday and is anchored near the lighthouse. The big battleship was brought here in order that the people of Connecticut might have an opportunity to inspect the ship named after their state, before she leaves for the Pacific.

Americans Win Again.

Boston, Mass.—The local American league team won its fifth successive victory over the Nationals Friday 5 to 3. Lindeman was hit hard in spots.

LIVING.

The messenger from Mars surveyed the multitude which had gathered to meet him with undisguised interest. Nor did he hesitate to propound such inquiries as his curiosity prompted.

"Where do you all live?" he asked speaking generally.

"I live in the future," said a young man, good humoredly.

"And I in the past," said an old man.

"How odd! And does none of you live in the present?"

There was an awkward silence.

"Pardon me," said the Martian, hastily. "Perhaps I press my questions too closely."

At this a voice from the outskirts of the crowd spoke up, saying:

"We have not yet learned him to live in the present without interruption of business, don't you know?"—Ramsey Benson, in Puck.

SYMPATHETIC.

Engineer—You are not alone in your troubles. My business, for instance, is constantly breaking up.

Bankrupt—Er, what is your line, sir?

Engineer—Stone crushing!—N. Y. Telegram.

Real Flight.

"Oh, darling, come and fly with me,"
He cried to the maiden sweet;
Just then his auto hit a cow
And o'er the big and brassy prow
The maid flew twenty feet.
—Chicago Daily News.

Much in a Name.

Western Man (looking at a sailing craft)—What keeps the sail out straight?

New York Host—It is held taut by the gaff and the boom. That heavy piece of timber at the bottom is called the boom. When the wind is fair the boom swings out and stays there; but if the wind should change, it might swing back with terrific force, and knock everybody overboard."

Western Man—Ah! I see now why it is called a boom. We have booms in the west, you know.

Corrected.

A commercial traveler who makes frequent trips to the west from New York is on friendly terms with the porter of the sleeping car who rejoices in the name of Lawrence Lee.

"Well, Lawrence," announced the salesman, gleefully, "I have good news for you. We've had a birth in our family, twins, by George."

"Dat am no birth, sir," said Lawrence, "dat's a section."

All Sunshine.

Studious Sam—Here is where some scientist states that in 2,000,000 years rain will never fall on the earth."

Jolly Jack—Gracious! I hope I live that long.

Studious Sam—Why so?

Jolly Jack—Why, when those sunny days arrive we won't have to save up for a rainy day.—Chicago Daily News.

A Small Request.

"Judge, will you do me a great favor?" asked the lady who was about to be put upon the stand as a witness.

"Certainly, miss, what is it?"

"Will you please ask me my age before I take the oath?"—Yonkers Statesman.

What He Was Called.

Joakley—Queer thing about that tall man over there. All his intimate friends call him "Short."

Poakley—Ah, just for a joke, I suppose?

Joakley—No, because that's his name.

OUR AMERICAN KINGS

FARMERS THE BACKBONE OF COMMERCE AND INDUSTRY.

FEEDING THE OTHER NATIONS

Greater Need of Study of Economic Principles by the Tillers of the Soil—Building Up the Towns.

American farmers are the wealth producers of the nation. In the United States annually the products of the farms exceed in value all the gold the country has produced in a score of years. If the term can be used in a free republic, the farmers are the American kings. The results of their labors feeds not alone a single nation, but assists in supplying sustenance for a large part of the people of nearly all lands of the earth. 'Tis the products of the farms that give the means of support to the great railroad systems, that keep the thousands of great steamers plying the oceans, that make possible the thousands of great enterprises. While the farmer is among the most independent classes of the land, too often he fails to reap full reward for the work he has accomplished. He must fight combine after combine, and pay taxes to support institutions from which he receives no benefit. This is because of the concentration of capital in the hands of a comparatively few in large financial centers. But is not the farmer to blame for this condition to a great extent? Does he not make it possible for the concentration of wealth in large cities? He certainly does lend his support to the building up of trusts, and to capital concentration, when he fails to patronize enterprises in his home town, and refuses to help build up its industries.

There is a "penny wise and pound foolish" attitude on the part of farmers in many communities that is destructive to their own interests. It is seeing a profit, quite often purely imaginary, and in striving to gain it lose sight of the truth that they are wielding the sword that will eventually inflict a serious wound to themselves. This is the practice of purchasing goods at trade centers distant from home. Towns and communities are made wealthy by retaining as great a part of the earnings of its people as possible. The larger the town can be made, the more valuable becomes the farm located near it, because the home market is made better and higher prices are secured for products.

Money earned by the farmers and the business men, if retained at home, generally finds investment in new enterprises that give employment to labor, and add to the wealth of the community and assists in lowering taxation. On the other hand, when the earnings of a community are sent away from it, the towns are deadened, and farm values lowered, taxation is made greater and the small imagined gains to those sending away the profits of their labor react against the sender, who assists in concentrating money in large financial centers in the hands of those who pay no local taxes. Generally the monied powers of those distant cities dictate to the farmers what prices shall be received for the products of their farms, and to the laborer the compensation he shall receive for his labor. Is not this proposition plain?

D. M. CARR.

TRADE'S MAGNET.

Virtue in Right Kind of Advertising in the Home Papers.

There is no apparent reason why the merchant in the average town should not be able to sell goods, class and quality considered, as low as the large city stores. He is under less expense, and if he is enterprising and up-to-date, he can buy his goods at as low a figure as the retailers in the large cities. There is laxity observed in the management of business by some merchants in rural towns. They depend too much on trade drifting their way without making the right kind of effort to gain it. A merchant in a western state who took it in his head to use large advertising space in his town paper, found that within three months, by persistently following up a plan of using a half page in the local paper for the publishing of prices and describing goods, increased his trade more than a third. From the position of doing about the fourth amount of business of any store in the town, he rapidly raised to first place. He is on the road to prosperity, and has been a benefit to the town in general, drawing trade to it that was never enjoyed before. This was done within 30 miles of one of the large western cities, and with the department stores of the city advertising in the same paper.

A Town Convenience.

Only for the farmers, the laborers and others that comprise the great part of the population, the merchants of the towns would have little excuse for being in business, and the merchant is a wonderful convenience to people of his neighborhood. One cannot well get along without the other. The merchant depends more upon the success of the farmer and the laborer than do either of the latter on the success of the former. Between them there should be greater harmony. In towns that are noted for activity and progress, particularly in agricultural sections, it will be found that it is the united efforts of all classes of workers that win.

CITIES AND TOWNS.

How They Are Built Up and What Gives Them Permanency.

Towns and cities are built where exist the greatest natural advantages. Growth and importance depends on environments and conditions. Requirements are that there be some manner of employment for their population. Thus the business of the place fixes its standing. It is then evident that the greater are the resources of a country and the more enterprising its people, the more important will be its cities and towns. Some locations have favorable conditions for certain lines of manufacture, and single industries support thousands, like the textile industry at Fall River, and the manufacture of jewelry at Providence, R. I. Others have shipping facilities that cause them to become great commercial centers. No city can exist within itself, free and independent of tributary territory, but must depend upon a large scope of country to supply it with the products necessary for the sustenance of its people, and for the marketing of its articles of commerce, and its manufactures.

Towns and cities decay when their business interests are destroyed. In the west, particularly in the mining sections, can be found hundreds of examples illustrative of this fact. The discovery of a mine is sufficient to gather people to compose a city. With the exhaustion of its mineral resources business is destroyed and the town becomes deserted. In agricultural sections exist commercial towns, made necessary by the development of the surrounding country. Such towns are supported by the trade that can be attracted from a certain scope of territory, and industries that can be established to employ labor. With development of tributary country, and expansion of industries, and the exercise of enterprise many of these towns attain the magnitude of cities and become important commercial and financial centers. With their growth farms adjacent increase in value. The truth of this is in evidence in nearly every state of the union. While within the boundaries of the United States proper there are more than 86,000,000 of people there is room for millions and millions more. There will be hundreds and thousands more cities pulsating with business come into existence. Reader, is not your home town one that may become a great city if you only do your part to assist it toward greatness?

HOME ENTERPRISES.

Trusts Cannot Well Compete with the Products of Local Mills.

Never in the past has there been such opportunity for the establishment of small enterprises in the cities and towns of the United States as is now presented. There is barely a locality which does not possess some advantages for certain lines of manufacture or commerce. There is little prospects for over-production as the population of the country is increasing at an enormous rate, and new markets are being opened continually in foreign countries for American products. Imports are decreasing excepting of raw materials, and each year shows an increase of imports. Many lines are supposed to be in the hands of combines, but these so-called trusts can never prevent the success of local enterprises in similar lines if the masses of the people will closely follow the home trade principle, and as far as possible give preference to local products. The great agricultural sections produce the wheat, corn, barley, and other cereals which find their way to large mills in far-off cities, are converted into flour, starch and innumerable kinds of foods, and in their manufactured state are returned to the sections where the grains were grown and sold at prices that leave a large margin of profit. How much more economical would it be to convert cereals into flour and other foodstuffs in mills located in the districts where the grains are grown. Would not the farmer receive a benefit in increased prices, the saving of freight rates, two or more profits that result from marketing, and would there not be a great benefit derived from the keeping at home wages paid to laborers and the retention in general of profits that go elsewhere?

Beware of Peddlers.

It will always be found best to avoid dealing with wanderers through the country who have something to dispose of particularly those who are not known to you as thoroughly honest. For years stoves, furniture, books, and hundreds of articles have been hawked about the country by itinerent agents. Some have more or less merit, but all are sold at enormous profits, far greater than would be required by some home dealer. When money is paid to the come-ango traveler, just so much money is taken away from circulation in a community, and it is gone to remain.

The Telephone.

Rural telephones are a boon to the farmers. They can keep in close touch with the markets, and all the doings of the outside world. One the uses that the 'phone can be well put to, is the getting of late market news from the home town. There are very few farmers who cannot use the telephone with profit during the marketing season.

The Home Market.

Good agricultural towns afford a steady market for eggs and other produce, thus keeping prices even. There is a poor market in a poor town, and prices are uneven.

CUBS OUTPLAYED THE DETROITS

IN SECOND GAME OF WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES.

WON BY A SCORE OF 3 TO 1.

Mullin and Pfeister Were the Pitchers —The Base Running of the Chicagos and Rossman's Batting Were the Features.

Chicago, Ill. — The Chicago National league team defeated the Detroit pennant winners of the American league in the second game of the series for the world's championship Wednesday. Score was 3 to 1. Slow pitching and several slight accidents caused the contest to drag out over two hours.

The local team discarded the new gray uniforms in which they appeared Tuesday, appearing in their soiled and worn white home uniforms. The change seemed to put them more at ease and also apparently benefited the Detroit players, for both teams played more steadily than on the opening day. After the first four and a half innings had dragged through an hour and 35 minutes some sparkling fielding and sharp hitting and base running hastened the game to an end.

Mullin and Pfeister were the pitchers and Payne went behind the bat in place of Schmidt. Otherwise the teams lined up as on the preceding day. Schmidt's retirement was due to his inaccurate throwing, but in this respect the change brought small improvement, as the five stolen bases credited to the local team testify.

Playing conditions were improved for the second game, the crowd numbering 21,901 as against over 24,000 Tuesday, while warm sunshine and the absence of the chill breeze of the first day kept spectators and players in more comfort.

Rossman, whose hitting was the real feature of the contest, scored the first run of the game in the second inning.

Chicago tied the score in its half of the inning. Kling, Evers and Schulte singled in succession, filling the bases with none out. Then Tinker drew a base on balls, forcing Kling home. Right there Mullin suddenly regained control of his curves, striking out Pfeister and Slagle, while the best Sheckard could do was a puny grounder to Schaefer.

In each of the next three innings Detroit batsmen reached first base with none out, but poor base running and the inability of the following batsmen to find openings in the Chicago defense stopped the embryonic tallies.

The winning runs came in the fourth. Tinker's hit bounded off Mullin's glove. He went to second on a sacrifice and stole third. O'Leary fumbled Slagle's grounder, Tinker scoring. Slagle stole second and came the rest of the way on Sheckard's two base hit past first base. After Chance had popped out Sheckard was caught trying to steal third.

After that fast fielding prevented further scoring. O'Leary cut off two hits by marvelous stops and throws in the fifth and repeated the feat in the sixth. Sheckard caught a low fly off his shoe tops in the seventh and the three Detroit runners who reached first base were cut down by Kling's fine throwing.

MORE TROUBLE IN MOROCCO.

Moneyed Men are Arrested and Their Property Seized by Mulai Hafid.

Mazagan, Morocco. — Mulai Hafid, who was proclaimed sultan at Morocco City some time ago, has caused the arrest here of six notable men belonging to the Azamour tribe, one of whom is a protege of the German consular officials. All the prisoners have been sent in chains to Morocco City.

Three more Azamour notables were arrested here Wednesday. One was said to have had $60,000 in his possession.

News of these arrests has thrown the Mazagan notables into a panic. They have implored the protection of the French consul, who has reported the situation to Tangier. Some of the men arrested have connections with France.

Advices received here from Morocco City declare that reinforcements to the number of 2,000 men are preparing to set out to join Mulai Hafid's troops at Settat. Mulai Hafid has imposed a tax of $60,000 on the Jews of Morocco City, who are consequently in a state of consternation. He has caused the arrest of three wealthy merchants of Fez on charges of conspiracy and seized their goods, valued at $70,000.

Oran, Algeria, Oct. 10.—A French reconnoitering column consisting of two companies of sharpshooters and a squadron of spahis and Algerian cavalry combined was ambushed Tuesday at Guerbol Hill, about nine miles from Oudja, Morocco, by warriors of the Beni Snassen tribe. The attack of the Moors was repulsed, but the French troops lost two spahis killed and had two sharpshooters wounded. In addition a score of horses belonging to the French cavalrymen were killed.

Before returning to Oudja the French force bombarded the village whence it had been ambushed. The enemy fled in all directions.

Receivers for a Bank are Named.

Baltimore, Md. — Receivers were appointed Wednesday for the Farmers' Trust, Banking and Deposit Co. of this city. Tightness of the money market is given as the cause of the embarrassment of the company, which conducted banking institutions in five towns in Maryland.

Gen. Breckenridge's Widow Dies.

New York City. — Mrs John C Breckinridge, widow of Gen. John C Breckinridge, one time vice president of the United States and candidate for the presidency against Abraham Lincoln, died here Wednesday.

CASSIE CHADWICK IS NO MORE

QUEEN OF FRENZIED FINANCE PASSES AWAY IN PEN.

No Friend or Relative at Bedside When Death Came—Her Second Term in State Prison.

Columbus, O.— Mrs. Cassie Chadwick, whose amazing financial transactions culminated in the wrecking of an Oberlin, O., bank, died in the woman's ward at the Ohio penitentiary Thursday night at 10:15. Mrs. Chadwick had been in a comatose condition for some hours previous to her death and the end came peacefully. No friends or relatives waited at her bedside, only the prison physician and hospital attendants. Her son, Emil Hoover, had been summoned from Cleveland, but arrived 15 minutes after she had expired.

Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick, whose maiden name was Elizabeth Bigley, was a native of Woodstock, Canada. She first came into public notice in Toledo, O., about 20 years ago, where she told fortunes under the name of Madame Devere. While in that city she forged the name of Richard Brown, of Youngstown, O., and for this crime was sent to the penitentiary at Columbus for nine years.

MRS. CASSIE L. CHADWICK.

She served but a portion of this sentence and then located in Cleveland, where she married a man named Hoover. Her second husband was Dr. Leroy S. Chadwick, of Cleveland, a man of good famly and excellent standing in his profession.

In the latter part of 1902, or early in 1903, Mrs. Chadwick, in the presence of her husband, gave to Ira Reynolds, the cashier of the Wade Park bank, of Cleveland, a box containing notes signed with the name of Andrew Carnegie. These forged notes are alleged to have amounted to $7,500,000. Reynolds gave a receipt for the papers, which described the notes, and the signatures upon them. Mrs. Chadwick left with Reynolds as an explanation of the notes, the statement that she was a natural daughter of Mr. Carnegie.

With the receipt of Reynolds in her possession, Mrs. Chadwick went to different banks and many capitalists, making loans and paying, not only high interest to the banks, but heavy bonuses to bank officials who loaned her the money. The extent of these transactions will never be fully known, but they ran up into the millions. They involved men of high standing in the financial world and caused heavy losses to many bankers.

In November, 1904, she was sued by a man named Newton, of Brookline, Mass., from whom she had borrowed a large amount. Other creditors came down upon her and soon she was arrested by the federal authorities on the charge of conspiring with Charles Beckwith, president, and A. B. Spear, cashier, of a national bank at Oberlin, O., which had been substantially looted. Mrs. Chadwick had obtained from this institution such large sums that it was compelled to close its doors, causing heavy losses to the depositors and ruining many of them. Mrs. Chadwick, Beckwith and Spear were indicted for a variety of offenses against the national banking laws. Beckwith died before coming to trial. Spear plead guilty, was sentenced to seven years in the penitentiary, and is now serving time at Columbus, O.

Mrs. Chadwick was brought to trial March 6, 1905, and after a hearing which lasted two weeks was found guilty of conspiracy to defraud a national bank and was sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary.

Her health, which was not good at the time of the trial, failed steadily after its conclusion.

Mrs. Chadwick left one son, Emil Hoover, born of her first marriage. He is now about 20 years old.

The decline in Mrs. Chadwick's health began almost from the time she entered the penitentiary, January 12, 1906. She fretted incessantly over her confinement until it became almost impossible for her to sleep. At times she was so peevish the patience of the prison officials was sorely tried.

Chicagos Again Defeated Detroits.

Chicago. Ill. — The Detroit American league team suffered its second successive defeat at the hands of the Chicago Nationals Thursday, scoring only one run. Chicago tallied five times, four of the runs being the result of solid hitting. Siever started to pitch for Detroit, but the locals took kindly to his curves and batted him out of the box in four innings.

Endorsed Cannon.

Owosso, Mich. — An endorsement of Speaker Joseph G. Cannon for the republican nomination for president was adopted here Thursday at the republican convention of the Eighth congressional district, after an animated debate.

Celebrate New York Day.

Norfolk, Va. — Empire, State day was celebrated on Thursday at the Jamestown exposition, addressed by Gov. Hughes, of New York, and President Schurman, of Cornell university, being the features of the observance.

Thomas A Edison, the great American inventor, says, "Fully eighty per cent. of the illness of mankind comes from eating improper food or too much food, people are inclined to over-indulge themselves." This is where indigestion finds its beginning in nearly all cases. The stomach can do just so much work and no more, and when you overload it, or when you eat the wrong kind of food, the digestive organs cannot possibly do the work demanded of them. It is at such times that the stomach needs help; it demands help, and warns you by headaches, belching, sour stomach, nausea and indigestion. You should attend to this at once by taking something that will actually do the work for the stomach. Kodol will do this. It is a combination of natural digestants and vegetable acids and contains the same juices found in a healthy stomach. It is pleasant to take. It digests what you eat. Sold by R. C. Dodson.

Democrats Resort to Campaign of Slander and Abuse.

BOURBON TACTICS REVIVED

Despite Onslaught of the Enemy Republican Lines In Pennsylvania Are Unbroken and Moving On to Triumph.

[Special Correspondence.]

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 15.

Without a single issue upon which to make a campaign, the Democrats of Pennsylvania, in a desperate effort to win the coming election, have resorted to the old-time tactics of slander, personal abuse and wilful misrepresentation of the Republican party and its candidate.

In the closing hours of the present state contest the Democratic editors and professional spellbinders find the tide of popular sentiment running so strongly against them that they seem to have lost all regard for decency and self-respect in the reckless and unscrupulous methods employed to promote their cause.

Despite the fact that before he was made the Republican nominee for state treasurer, John O. Sheatz was lauded by every Democratic newspaper in the state as a fearless, independent and public-spirited member of the state legislature, these same journalistic stars are now filling the columns of their newspapers with violent attacks upon Mr. Sheatz, with statements entirely at variance with their laudatory references to him while he was a member of the general assembly, fighting the battles of the people, and they are calling upon the voters to defeat him at the polls and elect in his stead a man whose strongest claim upon them is that he is a Democrat.

Reckless Democratic Oratory.

Supplementing the work of the Democratic editors, are a corps of professional Democratic politicians who are stumping the counties repeating charges that are absolutely unfounded, and circulating most flagrantly false statements in regard to Mr. Sheatz's votes in the legislature and in other ways misrepresenting the Republican candidate and his party.

This campaign of vituperation and abuse is a logical sequence to the attempt at the very outset of the contest to weaken Mr. Sheatz among the old soldiers of Pennsylvania by the distribution of circulars teeming with falsehoods and malice, and designed to array the veterans of the Civil War against him in the matter of the soldiers' pension bill.

The prompt and emphatic repudiation of this scheme by leading and influential members of the Grand Army, who knew Mr. Sheatz's ardent and conscientious interest in the old soldiers and sailors, and who, over their signatures, told the story of his devotion to their cause, for the time being completely demoralized the managers of the Democratic machine.

Bourbon Tactics Recalled.

Hostilities have been resumed, however.

There has evidently been an agreement among the Democratic politicians to go the limit in the closing days of the canvass in the matter of misrepresentation and abuse of everything Republican, and especially of the Republican nominee for state treasurer.

Last week marked the opening of this contemptible campaign. It is to be carried on without cessation until the polls close upon the 5th of November, but there is every reason to believe that the well-meaning citizens of the Keystone state will recognize this revival of the despicable Bourbon methods which for years characterized Democratic campaigns in this and other states.

The citizens of Pennsylvania are all familiar with the high personal character, the unblemished public record, the clean purpose and the proved integrity of John O. Sheatz, and it is certain that the more the Democratic editors and machine orators attack him the greater will be his majority at the coming election.

The people have confidence in Mr. Sheatz and will resent the disreputable campaign that is being waged against him.

HAPPY WOMEN.

Plenty of Them in Pennsylvania, and Good Reason for it.

Wouldn't any woman be happy,
After years of of backache suffering,
Days of misery, nights of unrest,
The distress of urinary troubles,
She finds relief and cure?

No reason why any Pennsylvania reader should suffer in the face of evidence like this:

Mrs. Sallie K. Dittling, of 1014 Hemlock St., Harrisburg, Pa., says: "My mother was greatly benefited by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. She suffered for years with kidney complaint and there was an almost constant aching across the small of her back and pain through her body. Frequent attacks of dizziness added to her trouble and the secretions from the kidneys were in a very bad condition. She was treated by a physician but was unable to get relief. Nothing did her any good until we procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills for her. Their good effects were noticcable from the start, and after finishing one box there was a decided improvement in every way. She can now rest well and has a much better appetite. We can certainly speak well of Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents, Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Rev. Madison C. Peters Attacks Assults Upon Personal Liberty in this State.

From the Philadelphia Press, October, 7th, 1907.

NEW YORK, October 6.—Dr. Madison C. Peters in his sermon here on "Why the Church Has Lost Her Hold on the People," referred to the Fairbanks' "cocktail" incident and made reference to the interference of certrin religionists in Pennsylvania with personal liberty and with making Temperance a partisan political issue. Dr. Peters said: "All men resent interference with personal liberty. When fanatical men of straight-laced views undertake to dictate to broad-minded men of liberal views and attempt to guide them in the narrow path of their own stunted natures, as to their private business and personal relations with the world, —when the church does this, she strikes at the foundation not only of personal liberty, but interferes with what does not concern her in the least."

"Churchly interference in private life has recently been emphasized in the matter of Vice-President Fairbanks' luncheon to President Roosevelt, where the serving of a cocktail has been made by the churches of the Middle West a political issue. If Mr. Fairbanks deemed it proper to serve cocktails in the privacy of his own home that was his own affair and he acted entirely within the jurisdiction of a free-born American."

"Mr. Fairbanks has been savagely attacked in hundreds of sermons, all of them lacking that Christian charity which, though supposed to cover a multitude of sins, as practiced by these men is not large enough to cover a single cocktail. And the church to which he has given a life-time of service and support, after a most bitter campaign, defeated him as a lay delegate to the general Convention. Of course Mr. Fairbanks happens to be a real Christian gentleman, broad-minded enough to overlook the pettiness of small-minded men, yet who could blame him if he kept out of the church for the future? While those ministers who have denounced Mr. Fairbanks may represent the spirit of the church, the Vice-President knows full well that they are not the true exponents of the teachings of Jesus."

Then Dr. Peters, who is a native of Pennsylvania, of Pennsylvania Dutch ancestory, and who was for many years a minister in Philadelphia and knows whereof he speaks, further said. "The attitude which the church is taking on the temperance question in Pennsylvania in its fanaticism is like that which the people of Indiana have shown towards the Vice-President. In the name of Temperance, political meetings are held in the churches, even on the Sabbath Day, with the avowed purpose of advancing the political interests of a minority party, denouncing men who had been conspicuous in the church for years, but who cannot see the temperance question as some of their neighbors see it, with the consequent result that throughout the State in every community can be found men who were regular attendants aud supporters of the church twenty-five years ago, but who now never enter a church with the possible exception of attending a funeral or witnessing a wedding."

"I believe myself in total abstinence for the individual, but that gives me no excuse for interfering with the personal liberty of my neighbor. Notwithstanding our proud boast of freedom, we are still under both secular and churchly restrictions. The church in her severe attitude is only living up to her old-time traditions, regardless of civilization and progress. When she sets her anathema on those who step beyond her narrow confines, she assumes a prerogative on matters alien to her jurisdiction. When she arbitrarily takes upon herself the regulation of private actions and usurps the right of conscience, striking, as she has in the Fairbanks' incident, at the privacy of the home-life and interfering with what does not concern her, she will lose her hold upon the people."

"The church is fundamentally wrong when she seeks to extend her jurisdiction to the affairs of private life. The people will not stand for much interference in Europe, much less in Amica. The church is driving thousands from her doors by the assumption of an authority she does not possess. In the past she has always suffered for her meddling with personal liberty and and freedom of conscience. She is under the ban in Europe at present time for just this very offence. By interfering with the rights of others, religious fanatics, in this country are driving men out of the church. The narrow-minded conservatism, the petty intolerence, the contemptible bigotry displayed in the Fairbanks' attack ought to be a warning to the American people, for the American people will resent any interference with what they believe to be their rights under the Constitution to enjoy life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, not as the church dictates, but as they themselves see it."

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our Regular Correspondent.]

Washington, Oct. 12th, 1907.

In administration circles the opinion prevails that there is no doubt that Secretary Taft's visit to China will increase the cordial relations between China and the United States and add to the prestige of American trade in the Orient. The Chinese press and people seem convinced at last that this country has no desire to annex any part of their territory and that the American people desire China's progress in the development of her resources and in the welfare of her people, and the cordial sentiment of the Chinese government toward the United States is held to be one more star added to the Roosevelt firmament.

Great interest has been aroused, not only in military but also in civilian circles, by the discovery that army officers are again thinking seriously of the advisability of transferring the Coast Artillery from the War to the Navy Department, and have presented to the Secretary of War, arguments which whether or not convincing, have at least led him to suggest to General Murray, Chief of Artillery, the advisability of drawing a bill providing for such transfer.

While army officers are very anxious to get rid of this branch of the service and would like to see all expenditures for fortifications and maintenance of the Coast Artillery charged by Congress and by the public to the navy, the transfer cannot be consummated, presumably, without the sanction of the Secretnry of the Navy and the Staff officers of that department and there is every indication that the will receive the scheme with wholesale condemnation. Moreover, the difficulties involved in the preparation of a bill providing for such transfer are far more numerous than Mr. Taft appreciated, or else his suggestion that such a measure be drafted was merely another demonstration of the kindly shrewdness he not infrequently exhibits in compelling his friends to prove to themseves that the schemes they have recommended to him with the utmost fervor and enthusiasm are by no means practicable. While this sunject seems likely to be debated with great earnestness until the arguments to be presented on each side of the question have been exhausted, there is not after all much expectation that action by either the President or the Secretary of War will result.

This past week the National Association of Railway Commissioners have been presenting arguments for the necessity of their continued existence in their annual session in Washington. They have put themselves on record as opposed to the views of the President for Federal control of railways doing an interstate business, and have declared for an extension of the powers of the Commission instead of any curtailment thereof.

The amazement, recently expressed by Mr. Wakeman, Secretary of the American Protective Tariff League, over the extent of the sentiment for tariff revision throughout the country, is a source of amazement to those politicians and officials in Washington who have, this past summer, taken the revision pulse of the country- The desire for a revision of our tariff schedules is so universal that it is regarded as a demand by the intelligent politicians.

SYNOPSIS.

The American consul to Barscheit, a principality of Europe, tells how the reigning grand duke had tried to find a husband for his rebellious niece, the Princess Hildegarde, finally decreeing that she wed the Prince of Doppelkinn, an ugly old widower, ruler of the neighboring principality. Though he had been in the country for six months the American consul had never seen the princess. While horseback riding in the country night overtakes him and he seeks accommodation in a dilapidated old castle. In it he finds two women and an old servitor, who feed him and his horse. One announces herself as the Princess Hildegarde, the other as the Hon. Betty Moore of England. The princess insists that he remain as a witness to a meeting to be held in the castle that night.

CHAPTER III.—Continued.

"Must! My presence here ought not to be known to any one. When you witness that which shall take place here to-night, you will understand." Her tone lost its evenness; it trembled and became a bit wild.

"In what manner may I be of service to your highness?" I asked pleasantly, laying aside my gloves and crop again. "I can easily give you my word of honor as a gentleman not to report your presence here; but if I am forced to remain, I certainly demand—"

"Desire," she corrected, the old fire in her eyes.

"Thank you. I desire, then, to know the full reason; for I can not be a party to anything which may reflect upon the consulate. For myself, I do not care." What hare-brained escapade was now in the air?

"You have heard that I am to marry the Prince of Doppelkinn?" she began.

I nodded.

"Doubtless you have also heard of my determination not to marry him?" she went on.

Again I nodded.

"Well, I am not going to marry him."

I was seized with the desire to laugh but dared not. What had all this to do with my detention in the castle?

"Betty," said the princess, turning imploringly to her companion (what a change!), "you tell him."

"I?" The Honorable Betty drew back.

(Had they kidnapped old Doppelkinn? I wondered.)

"I can not tell him," cried her highness miserably, "I simply can not. You must do it, Betty. It is now absolutely necessary that he should know everything; it is absolutely vital that he be present. Perhaps heaven has sent him. Do you understand? Now, tell him!"

And, wonders to behold! she who but a few minutes gone had been a princess in everything, cold, seeing, tranquil, she fled from the room. (Decidedly this was growing interesting. What had they done?) Thus, the Honorable Betty Moore and his excellency, the American consul at Barscheit, were left staring into each other's eyes fully a minute.

"You will, of course, pledge me your word of honor?" She who had recently been timid now become cool and even-pulsed.

"If in pledging it I am asked to do nothing to discredit my office. I am not an independent individual,"—smiling to put her more at ease. (I haven't the least doubt that I would have committed any sort of folly had she required it of me.)

"You have my word, sir, that you will be asked to do nothing dishonorable. On the other hand, you will confer a great favor upon her highness, who is in deep trouble and is seeking a way to escape it."

"Command me," said I promptly.

"Her highness is being forced into marriage with a man who is old enough to be her grandfather. She holds him in horror, and will go to any length to make this marriage an impossibility. For my part, I have tried to convince her of the futility of resisting her royal uncle's will." (Sensible little Britisher!) "What she is about to do will be known only to four persons, one of whom is a downright rascal."

"A rascal?" slipped my lips, half-unconsciously. "I trust that I haven't given you that impression," I added eagerly. (A rascal? The plot was thickening to formidable opaqueness.)

"No, no!" she cried hastily, with a flash of summer on her lips. (What is more charming than an English woman with a clear sense of the humorous?) "You haven't given me that impression at all."

"Thank you." My vanity expanded under the genial warmth of this knowledge. It was quite possible that she looked upon me favorably.

"To proceed. There is to be a kind of mock marriage here to-night, and you are to witness it." She watched me sharply.

I frowned.

"Patience! Not literally a mock marriage but the filling out of a bogus certificate."

"I do not understand at all."

"You have heard of Hermann Steinbock, a cashiered officer?"

"Yes. I understand that he is the rascal to whom you refer."

"Well, this certificate is to be filled out completely. To outwit the duke, her highness commits—"

"A forgery."

"It is a terrible thing to do, but she has gone too far to withdraw now. She is to become the wife of Hermann Steinbock. She wishes to show the certificate to the duke."

"But the banns have not been made public."

"That does not matter."

"But why detain me?" I was growing restless. It was all folly, and no good would come of it.

"It is necessary that a gentleman should be present. The caretaker is not a gentleman. I have said that Steinbock is a rascal. As I review the events, I begin to look upon your arrival as timely. Steinbock is not a reliable quantity."

"I begin to perceive."

"He is to receive 1,000 crowns for his part in the ceremony; then he is to leave the country."

"But the priest's signature, the notary's seal, the iron-clad formalities which attend all these things!" I stammered.

"You will recollect that her highness is a princess of the blood. Seldom is she refused anything in Barscheit." She went to a small secretary and produced a certificate, duly sealed and signed. There lacked nothing but Steinbock's name.

"But the rascal will boast about it! He may blackmail all of you. He may convince the public that he has really married her highness."

"I think not. We have not moved in this blindly. Steinbock we know to have forged the name of the minister of finance. We hold this sword above his head. And if he should speak or boast of it, your word would hold greater weight than his. Do you understand now?"

"Yes, I understand. But I believe that I am genuinely sorry to have

"'Your Highness Sees That I Am Prompt.'"

blundered into this castle to-night."

"Oh, if you lack courage!" carelessly.

I laughed. "I am not afraid of 20 Steinbocks."

Her laughter echoed mine. "Come, Mr. ——— By the way, I believe I do not know your name."

"Warrington—Arthur Warrington."

"That is a very good English name, and a gentleman possessing it will never leave two women in a predicament like this. You will understand that we dare not trust any one at court. Relative to her highness, the duke succeeds in bribing all."

"But a rascal like Steinbock!"

"I know,"—a bit wearily.

"It is pardonable to say that I believe her highness has been very foolish."

The girl made a gesture which conceded the fact. "It is too late to retreat, as I have told you. Steinbock is already on the way. We must trust him. But you?"

"After all, what does a consulate amount to?"

"Your highness!" she called.

The princess returned. She looked at me with a mixture of fierceness and defiance, humility and supplication. I had always supposed her to be a sort of hobbledehoy; instead, she was one of those rare creatures who possess all the varying moods of the sex. I

"He knows all?" asked her highness, her chin tilted aggressively.

"Everything."

"What must you think of me?" There was that in her highness' tone tone which dared me to express any opinion that was not totally complimentary.

"I am not sufficiently well-born to pass an opinion upon your highness' actions," I replied, with excusable irony.

"Excellent!" she exclaimed. "I have grown weary of sycophants. You are not afraid of me at all."

"Not in the slightest degree," I declared.

"You will not regret what you are about to do. I can make it very pleasant for you in Barscheit—or very unpleasant." But this threatening supplement was made harmless by the accompanying smile.

"May I offer the advice of rather a worldly man?"

"Well?"

"When Steinbock comes bid him go about his business."

The Honorable Betty nodded approvingly, but her highness shrugged.

"Since you are decided," and I bowed. "Now, what time does this fellow put in his appearance?"

Her highness beamed upon the Honorable Betty. "I like the way he says 'this fellow;' it reassures me. He is due at nine o'clock; that is to say, in half an hour. I will give you these directions. I do not wish Steinbock to know of your presence here. You will hide in the salon, close to the portieres, within call. Moreover, I shall have to impose upon you the disagreeable duty of playing the listener. Let nothing escape your ear or your eye. I am not certain of this fellow Steinbock, though I hold a sword above his head."

"But where are your men?" I asked.

She smiled. "There is no one here but Leopold."

"Your highness to meet Steinbock alone?"

"I have no fear of him; he knows who I am."

"Everything shall be done as you wish." I secretly hoped I might have the opportunity to punch Steinbock's head.

"Thank you." The transition of her moods always left me in wonder. "Play something; it is impossible to talk." She perched herself on the broad arm of the Honorable Betty's chair, and her arm rested lightly but affectionately on her shoulder.

"Hark!"

We all listened intently. The sound of beating hoofs came distinctly. A single horseman was galloping along the highway toward the castle. The sound grew nearer and nearer; presently it ceased. I rose quietly.

"It is time I hid myself, for doubtless this rider is the man."

The princess paled for a moment, while her companion nervously plucked at the edges of her handkerchief.

"Go," said the former, "and be watchful."

I then took up my position behind the portieres. Truly I had stumbled into an adventure; but how to stumble out again? If the duke got wind of it, it would mean my recall, and I was of a mind, just then, that I was going to be particularly fond of Barscheit.

All was silent. A door closed, and then came the tread of feet. I peered through the portieres shortly to see the entrance of two men, one of whom was the old caretaker. His companion was a dark, handsome fellow, of Hungarian gypsy type. There was a devil-may-care air about him that fitted him well. It was Steinbock. He was dressed with scrupulous care, in spite of the fact that he wore riding clothes. It is possible that he recognized the importance of the event. One did not write one's name under a princess' signature every day, even in mockery. There was a half-smile on his face that I did not like.

"Your highness sees that I am prompt,"—uncovering.

"It is well. Let us proceed at once to conclude the matter in hand," she said.

"Wholly at your service!"

(Hang the fellow's impudence! How dared he use that jovial tone?)

SAID TO BE SIMPLE

EASILY MIXED RECIPE FOR KIDNEYS AND BLADDER.

Tells Readers How to Prepare This Home-Made Mixture to Cure the Kidneys and Bladder and Rheumatism.

Get from any prescription pharmacist the following:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Shake well in a bottle and take a teaspoonful dose after each meal and at bedtime.

The above is considered by an eminent authority, who writes in a New York daily paper, as the finest prescription ever written to relieve Backache, Kidney Trouble, Weak Bladder and all forms of Urinary difficulties. This mixture acts promptly on the eliminative tissues of the Kidneys, enabling them to filter and strain the uric acid and other waste matter from the blood which causes Rheumatism.

Some persons who suffer with the afflictions may not feel inclined to place much confidence in this simple mixture, yet those who have tried it say the results are simply surprising, the relief being effected without the slightest injury to the stomach or other organs.

Mix some and give it a trial. It certainly comes highly recommended. It is the prescription of an eminent authority, whose entire reputation, it is said, was established by it.

SURELY HAD PRIZE FLY.

Money Invested in Incubator Was Not All Lost.

Poultney Bigelow, the brilliant author and journalist, said the other day of the chicken farm that he is about to set up at Malden:

"I hope to succeed with this farm. I hope our experiences won't too closely resemble that of my old friend Horatio Rogers. Rash Rogers lived in the suburbs. On the suburban train one morning he said to me with a sour laugh:

"I've got something nobody else has got, Mr. Bigelow.'

"'Have you, Rash?' said I. 'What is it?'

"'Well,' said Rogers, 'I bought a $50 incubator last month, put $15 worth of eggs in it, and hatched out a blubottle fly.'

"He frowned, then sighed.

"'Yes,' he said, 'I've got the only $65 bluebottle fly in the world.'"

Remarkable Photography.

Photography has caught the fastest express train in motion by means of the cinematograph, and it also shows the growth of a flower. A bud which bursts into bloom in, say, 16 days, is exposed to a camera every 15 minutes during the 16 days, and when the pictures developed from the films are assembled in order in the moving picture machine, the observer may see, to his delight, all in a minute or two, the gradual breaking of the bud—the blossoms open, close by night and reopen in the morning, the leaves grow under the eye, the stamens peep from cover, and, finally, the full-blown flower.

Chiropodist's Prescription.

A lotion and powder for tender and swollen feet: One teaspoonful of boracic acid to one pint of grain alcohol. After bathing the feet in lukewarm water, spray them with the lotion used in an atomizer, and fan until dry. The effect is delightful. Then rub over the foot this powder, or put it in the stocking:

Powdered starch, 35 grains, oil of bergamot, ten drops; oil of lavender, 6 drops; oil of wintergreen, 16 drops. Mix well, and pass through a sieve. Excellent.—National Magazine.

The Necessary Evil.

"I have a friend who says he doesn't eat much through the day," remarked the woman, "but every now and then he takes a little nip to comfort himself, I suppose, for not eating. He says it's very good for a man who is on the shady side of 50 to take little nips of something strengthening through the day."

"You tell him frum me," said the Kentucky colonel, "that when ge gits to be on the shady side of the sixties, it'll ben ot only good fuh him, but it will be absolutely necessary to his existence."

TRANSFORMATIONS.

Curious Results When Coffee Drinking Is Abandoned.

It is almost as hard for an old coffee toper to quit the use of coffee as it is for a whisky or tobacco fiend to break off, except that the coffee user can quit coffee and take up Postum without any feeling of a loss of the morning beverage, for when Postum is well boiled and served with cream, it is really better in point of flavor than most of the coffee served nowadays, and to the taste of the connoisseur it is like the flavor of fine, mild Java.

A great transformation takes place in the body within ten days or two weeks after coffee is left off and Postum used, for the reason that the poison to the nerves—caffeine—has been discontinued, and in its place is taken a liquid food that contains the most powerful elements of nourishment.

It is easy to make this test and give these statements by changing from coffee to Postum. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

POULTRY AND BEES

HOMEMADE TRAP NEST.

Trap Nest which Works as Well as More Elaborate Ones.

Seven years ago I devised a trap nest which is simple and works well. I can find no fault with it that does not apply to any other kind, writes a correspondent of Farm and Home. The constant attention they require is more than I care to give, so I do not use them now. They are simple of construction and anybody with eyes and hands can make them. The first thing is a box 13 or 14 inches wide and deep and two feet long. Nail a three or four inch board across center on bottom to retain nesting material. Cut an opening in one end eight inches square and make the door 7x8 inches. Nail some small hinges on inside to hang the door. Get some small spring wire and turn some springs, a, on a half inch spindle, 2½ or three inches long. Fasten one end to the door, the other to side, so that when the door is pushed in the spring will be strong enough to pull it back shut.

Fasten with two short nails or screws a piece of rat spring, b, like those used in corsets at the opposite side of door on the floor of nest box. Raise this spring and have it just long enough to prop the door two-thirds open. Have a little notch cut in door to hold it up. When the hen pushes her way into the nest the door will relieve this spring and when the hen steps into nest compartment the door closes. Put on a check so the door will not swing out. Hinge a cover on top of other end of box to gather the eggs and take the hen out. Don't make these boxes tight but leave plenty of change of air. Look at them every hour when the hens are busy.

SOME BEE DON'TS.

If You Let Them "Slide" They Will Disappoint You.

Don't forget that there is a winter coming.

Don't forget that it will soon be here.

Don't forget that bees cannot live through the winter on beeswax and air.

Don't forget to see that they have something more substantial.

Don't forget that the sooner you do it the better it can be done.

Don't think that because you have only a few colonies of bees they do not need attention.

Don't think that, if they do need it, any old time before Christmas will do to fix them up.

Don't think that you haven't time just now.

Don't think that you can't leave the plowing or the roots for a few hours.

Don't think that the bees have plenty of honey for winter, unless you know they have—unless you have seen it or given it to them, or felt the weight of it.

Live bees are worth money; dead bees are not. Remember that bees are living animals—or insects—and if they haven't enough of the proper food to keep them alive they will die. The fact that you can give them their winter's supply of food all at once (if they haven't already got it for themselves) is no excuse for not giving it to them at the proper time. Look them up. If they haven't a laying queen and enough honey for winter, see that they are "put right." The sooner the better. Do it now.

POULTRY PICKINGS.

Birds cannot tell their feelings, hence we must judge and prescribe from symptoms alone.

The causes of malignant colds are filth, dampness, drafts, neglect and improper food.

Ducks seldom become broody; geese are apt to become broody after laying the first litter.

Eggs from yearling ducks hatch well, but geese must be about three years old to show strong fertility.

A cockerel can be distinguished from a pullet at three months of age, as he will be crowing by that time.

Do not make the hen's nest too deep so that the hen will have to jump down on the eggs in getting on the nest.

When a fowl sneezes, waters slightly at eyes and nostrils and dumps it has a common cold, not regarded as a germ disease.

The pullets hatched in March will make good layers for the late fall, and then they can be handled so they will lay all winter.

Don't depend on any secret system of breeding layers. If you don't know your flock well enough to select the layers to breed from your case is hopeless.

Be sure conditions are favorable, then apply the hatchet to the hen that persists in striking every time the price of eggs advances.

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

Some of the choicest lands in the grain growing belts of Saskatchewan and Alberta have recently been opened for settlement under the Revised Homestead Regulations of Canada. Thousands of homesteads of 160 acres each are now available. The new regulations make it possible for entry to be made by proxy, the opportunity that many in the United States have been waiting for. Any member of a family may make entry for any other member of the family, who may be entitled to make entry for himself or herself. Entry may now be made before the Agent or Sub-Agent of the District by proxy, (on certain conditions) by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

"Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-West Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person the sole head of a family, or male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less."

The fee in each case will be $10.00. Churches, schools and markets convenient. Healthy climate, splendid crops and good laws. Grain-growing and cattle raising principal industries.

Colored Gentility in the Happy Valley

By Emily McGuire

A Southern Woman Tells Quaint Anecdotes About Some Colored Folk She Met in Old Virginia—Secluded Abode on the Top of the Alleghanies Which Has Been Visited by Many Noted Persons, Including Washington and Jefferson, Whose Names May Now Be Seen There on the Hotel Register.

(Copyright, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

(Mrs. Frederick McGuire is the wife of the president of the board of directors of the Corcoran art gallery, of Washington, D. C., and is conspicuous in society and art circles of the national capital.)

On the top of the Alleghany mountains, in the very heart of the "Old Dominion," lies the most perfect modern reproduction of that real old Arcadia so beloved by the poets. Nor is it such a very modern reproduction, either, because the "happy valley" of which I am speaking has been visited by succeeding generations of devoted pilgrims since the early days of our young republic, and among the many names found on the register of the quaint little hotel there can be seen those of Washington and Jefferson and many others which are also inscribed upon the roll of fame.

In this Warm Springs valley of which I am speaking not only does the sunshine seem of a different character, its rays coming to earth softened and veiled by a mist, which, though golden during the day, turns to purple toward evening, but the song of the bird becomes more melodious, the bee hums more drowsily, the streams ripple more musically, the leaves rustle more soothingly; but our fellow beings whom we meet there are of a different order from any whom I have met elsewhere, and are possessed of a quaint and humorous turn of mind and have an originality exclusively their own.

Of course it must be explained that I am speaking now only of the colored race. The first time I entered this "happy valley," more than 20 years ago, I said to an old negro, who looked as if he had grown old with the mountains: "Is the train on time this morning?" and he responded: "Oh, no, indeed, honey, dat train ain't on time." Then I asked: "How much is it behind time?" and he said: "Fo' hours." I was appalled, and asked: "Has it ever been as much as four hours late before?" and he answered: "Yes, indeed, honey; one day las' week de train never come at all." But a little circumstance like that did not seem to have the power to overthrow the equipoise of that calm community.

They also have a phraseology and a vocabulary all their own, but what they say never for a moment leaves any doubt in your mind as to what they mean.

I once went into the cabin of a poor woman where death had entered, and, not seeing any means or methods of burial, I asked: "What will be done?" and the woman replied: "Why, Mr. Crizer has always undertook in our family, and always done it well."

Old Uncle Billie, who was always regarded as a "last court of appeal" in matters meterological, was once asked what he supposed was the cause of some peculiarly disagreeable weather, and his explanation was: "The heavy respections of the atmosphere make the elements dismal." Which really sounded so exactly as if it had been promulgated by the weather bureau that we almost hoped to secure "Old Billie" a position in the signal service on the strength of it.

In the "Cowardin Cap" of the Allephany mountains, at a little settlement bearing the classic name of Shake-Rag, stands a colored church, of what denomination I never have been able to discover, and to be there when there is either a wedding in the church or a baptizing in the Jackson river near by, to see the bucolic travesties upon the prevailing modes, especially in the matter of chignons and pompadours, is a liberal education. A window's mourning, if one happens to be there, is something fearful and wonderful to behold.

At a baptizing in the Jackson river on one occasion I saw and heard hundreds of the faithful singing and shouting:

"Now eve-ry one of you that thirst,
Step down into the water,
And free-ly drink and squench that thirst,
Like Zion's son and daughter."

At a recent wedding in the church at Shake-Rag the preacher, who seemed to have heard rumors of the matrimonial snares and pitfalls of the outer world, made a charge to the contracting parties—a laundress and a waiter from the Warm Springs hotel—and concluded by saying: "And may you live together forever in unavoidable infidelity and may you never suppurate.'

It is amusing, also, to see what rare combinations of Christian humanity and worldly pride one frequently encounters in that peaceful valley. I once attempted to adjust a difficulty which had arisen between two old female colored autocrats living in that mountain gap, and finally one of them said to me: "The trouble is in this here Gap that these niggers will speak mistruths which ain't outright, and make it hard for Sister Jane."

"Oh," said I, "if you are Jane's sister, I can soon settle the whole difficulty."

She placed her arms akimbo, cast a baleful and rebuking eye upon me, and replied: "Sister in de Lord, honey, and de First Baptist church, colored."

She flouted the idea of their being of the same family or blood.

At the sweet little old Warm Springs hotel near by, presided over by two sisters, high-born, high-bred Carolina gentlewomen, one meets all the true aristocracy of the southern states, and there the rude world never seems to enter, there being nothing to attract the flashy element. On the contrary, a high-bred distinction seems to characterize the place, and it is neither impressed by the presence or depressed by the absence of the "smart set."

A woman at the north once wrote to a friend at the Warm Springs that she was not able to join her there, and gave as one reason that she had not been able to provide a summer wardrobe that season. The friend at the Warm Springs responded, saying: "Here one needs no new wardrobe nor any large bank account, but one does require a 'family tree;' so if you have ancestors, bring them, as here every one is the granddaughter of a dead president, or, at least, of Patrick Henry."

The wonderful thermal baths here are presided over by two most typical and interesting colored people, and these hot pools are 50 feet in diameter and the water has a temperature of 98 degrees. Jackson, who has been at the men's bathhouses for these many years, is a great authority upon gout and rheumatism, a great believer in the occult and the unseen, in omens, and conjuring, and is regarded with deep respect by his own kind as a reliable and dependable interpreter of dreams. Fanny Shepard, whose term of service at the women's bathhouse has been as long as Jackson's, is as picturesque and interesting a character as is he.

She was indignant because the hotel official who "personally conducted" President McKinley to see "her pool," had not only not officially presented her to him, but had not even told her who he was. She complained to me that "when he come from the men's pool that I seen Jackson a-bowin' and a-congeerin' to him," but that had not enlightened her. She said further: "The president would have been interested in me if any one had told him that I have a son who is a missionary in Africa, and who is a fellow of the Royal Geographical society, of London, and who had dined with Queen Victoria at her own table at Windsor castle."

All of which I knew to be true, because I knew this son, William Shepard, and during my early years at the Warm Springs he was one of the waiters in the dining-room and at the same time a Baptist preacher, but he felt called upon to go into the missionary field and he went to Africa. There it was soon manifest that he could exercise great influence over some of the most savage of the African tribes. He is one of those who has penetrated the farthest into some of these African wildernesses. He was invited to London by the Royal Geographical society, which made him one of its members, and he was invited by Queen Victoria, and did dine with her at her own table in Windsor castle.

The whole of my account of this part of the world, however, must not be accorded to human nature alone. The grand and beautiful scenery must be spoken of to those who have not had the good fortune to see for themselves.

Nothing in nature can be as beautiful as to see the spring come up in the Warm Springs valley. The whole face of the level country is white with the bloom of the locust and the dogwood and of the fruit blossoms, especially the apple, for which that region of the country is celebrated. Then there is a native thorn, which when in full bloom, looks as if snow had fallen upon it, and in passing any cottage or farmhouse the atmosphere is heavy with the fragrance of lilacs and lilies of the valley, while the fields are heavenly blue with myriads of waving Roman hyacinths.

No pen can adequately describe the mountain sides at this season. They are literally ablaze with laurel, rhododendron and the wild mountain azalea in pink, orange and pale yellow. In all seasons of the year nature is at her best here but the beauty, charm and enchantment of the spring are beyond anything I have seen in the world elsewhere. Upon a clear, exquisite day these lines insensibly glide into the mind:

"Blue isles of heaven laugh between
And far in forest depths unseen,
The topmost elm trees gather green
From draughts of balmy air."

The Child's Skin.

The chief peculiarity about the treatment of skin disease in children is that the reaction to the remedies applied is more prompt than in adults, says a writer in the London Hospital. Moreover, since the risk of absorption is by no means inconsiderable, ointments and lotions containing powerful poisons, such as carbolic acid or mercury, should not be employed, unless well diluted, over large surfaces of the body.

Certain cutaneous lesions also are transient, so that one is left with their results, notably the scratch-mark and the scab. The history of the mode of onset of an eruption, as given by an intelligent mother or nurse, is, therefore, of greater value than the statement of the patient himself, who might even be unaware of the existence of anything wrong with his skin.

A TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE.

How a Veteran Was Saved the Amputation of a Limb.

B. Frank Doremus, veteran, of Roosevelt avenue, Indianapolis, Ind., says: "I had been showing symptoms of kidney trouble from the time I was mustered out of the army, but in all my life I never suffered as in 1897. Headaches, dizziness and sleeplessness, first, and then dropsy. I was weak and helpless, having run down from 180 to 125 pounds. I was having terrible pain in the kidneys, and the secretions passed almost involuntarily. My left leg swelled until it was 34 inches around, and the doctor tapped it night and morning until I could no longer stand it, and then he advised amputation. I refused, and began using Doan's Kidney Pills. The swelling subsided gradually, the urine became natural, and all my pains and aches disappeared. I have been well now for nine years since using Doan's Kidney Pills."

COINED A BIG WORD.

Little One Wanted to Pick the "Underchildrenable" Flowers.

When the first little granddaughter was big enough to want to pick the garden flowers, the grandparents tried every guileful means to save their pet posies from devastation. A truce was reached when it was agreed that Harriet should let the garden plants alone and pick only "children's flowers," a descriptive name bestowed at once alike on dandelions, buttercups, daisies and clovers. After this there was peace in the family. One day Katherine, the newest granddaughter, was contentedly pulling grasses while grandmother snipped off blossoms from the forget-me-nots. Katherine remembered that fresh flowers had not been gathered for the dinner table. She ran over to grandmother and promptly coined one of the longest words a four-year-old ever used. "Grandmother," she begged, "can't I pick the underchildrenable flowers for dinner?"

SLEEP BROKEN BY ITCHING.

Eczema Covered Whole Body for a Year—No Relief Until Cuticura Remedies Prove a Success.

"For a year I have had what they call eczema. I had an itching all over my body, and when I would retire for the night it would keep me awake half the night, and the more I would scratch, the more it would itch. I tried all kinds of remedies, but could get no relief.

"I used one cake of Cuticura Soap, one box of Cuticura, and two vials of Cuticura Resolvent Pills, which cost me a dollar and twenty-five cents in all, and am very glad I tried them, for I was completely cured. Walter W. Paglusch, 207 N. Robey St., Chicago, Ill., Oct. 8 and 16, 1906."

Yes, Why Not?

Dr. Frank C. Bostwick, official dentist to the sultan of Morocco, has been spending his vacation in Plainfield, N. J., and at a recent dinner he said, apropos of a bad child:

"It is wise to punish children, but not corporally. I know a dentist in Gibraltar who got out a birch rod to punish his little son with one day. The boy, looking at the rod, said piteously:

"'Papa, would you mind giving me gas first?'"

As in the Olden Time.

A great sensation has been caused at Mantua, in Italy, by the discovery in real life of what reads like the lurid climax of a redieval melodrama. It appears that a young woman named Cornelia Orlandelli, 18 years old and of good family, has been immured in a lunatic asylum by her own family in order to keep her from corresponding with a young man of her own station in life.

HIS MEMORY WAS GOOD.

Commodore Vanderbilt Had Not Forgotten Old Days.

The coming of age of Miss Gladys Vanderbilt and the payment to her of some twelve millions of dollars inheritance has brought out a new crop of anecdotes about the Vanderbilt fortune. One of the latest illustrates the democratic spirit of the old commodore.

Sitting on the porch of a fashionable hotel at a fashionable resort on one occasion, it is related, the commodore saw a lady aproaching with whom he was acquainted. His wife and daughter, who recognized her, could scarcely contain their anger when he arose and politely addressed her.

"Don't you know," said the daughter after she had gone, "that horrid woman used to sell poultry to us?"

"Yes," responded the old millionaire, "and I remember when your mother sold root beer and I peddled oysters in New Jersey."

ON A MACKEREL SCHOONER.

Daily Routine in the Life of the Gloucester Fishermen.

The routine life on a mackerel schooner is not strenuous. The crew consists of 14 men, a skipper and cook. Two men constitute a watch, one aloft as a lookout, the other at the wheel, so that each man has two hours on duty, and then 12 hours off, before his turn comes around again. During this period he may be called on to shorten sail, wash the deck or to perform other work. Half of the crew have their bunks forward with the cook, who is king of the forecastle, and the rest sleep aft with the captain. We were assigned to a double bunk aft, where we were not troubled with galley smells, but had to be on our good behavior. All the rolics and revels were forward. The crew ate in two shifts, the older men with the skipper.—Travel Magazine.

The Shah on His Travels.

How the shah of Persia left Teheran on his journey to Europe in 1900 is described by the author of "Through Persia in a Motor Car." The imperial baggage—items of which were sacks of corn and barley, a school globe and a colossal musical box—was four hours rolling through Teheran. In the midst, on a diminutive donkey, came a little man with a gray beard and spectacles, who carried an enormous wallet, out of which bulged mysterious-looking articles, among others a huge open telescope. This was his sacred majesty's astrologer.

All Explained.

There is a little story going round the house of commons about a certain member who abstained from voting on the deceased wife's sister bill. Questioned by one of his friends as to the reason for his abstention, he replied: "Well, my dear fellow, it's just like this—my wife has a sister."—John Bull.

Perfect Womanhood

The greatest menace to woman's permanent happiness in life is the suffering that comes from some derangement of the feminine organs.

Many thousands of women have realized this too late to save their health, barely in time to save their lives.

To be a successful wife, to retain the love and admiration of her husband, should be a woman's constant study.

If a woman finds that her energiesare flagging, that she gets easily tired, dark shadows appear under her eyes, she has backache, headache, bearing-down sensations, nervousness, irregularities or the "blues," she should start at once to build up her system by a tonic with specific powers, such as the great woman's remedy for woman's ills, made only of roots and herbs.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

It cures Female Complaints, such as Dragging Sensations, Weak Back, Falling and Displacements, Inflammation and Ulceration, and all Organic Diseases, and is invaluable in the Change of Life. It dissolves and Expels Tumors at an early stage. Subdues Faintness, Nervous Prostration, Exhaustion, and strengthens and tones the Stomach. Cures Headache, General Debility, Indigestion, and invigorates the whole female sysem. It is an excellent remedy for derangements of the Kidneys in either sex.

Sour Stomach

No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings, and catarrh of the stomach are all due to indigestion. Kodol relieves indigestion. This new discovery represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, combined with the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol for dyspepsia does not only relieve indigestion and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy helps all stomach troubles by cleansing, purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach.

Mr. S. S. Ball, of Ravenswood, W. Va., says:—"I was troubled with sour stomach for twenty years. Kodol cured me and we are now using it in milk for baby."

Kodol Digests What You Eat.
